Let's Start!

What's on the agenda today?

Learning Outcome

Accurately use important information about people's jobs and places of work in communicative situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about jobs and work.
- I can talk about work experience.
- I can give and understand oral instructions.

Ask your partner:

- Do you work? Where? What do you do?
- What kind of work experience do you have?

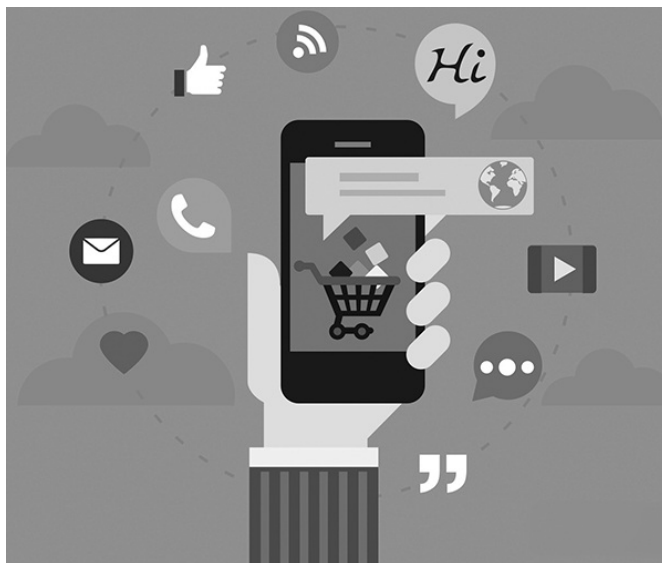

Let's Explore!

Janet talks to Miranda about a major project that's coming up.

* "Major" means very large or important. The opposite of "major" is minor.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Janet: Miranda, before we start, I would like to ask about your experience.
- Miranda: I have worked as a PR consultant before, and have some experience of working with clients internationally.
- Janet: Excellent. I'd like to give you a rundown on this major project we are about to embark on. Have you read the memo I sent?
- Miranda: I haven't read it yet, but I scanned through it briefly. Is this about Holly's?
- Janet: Correct! They've decided to hire an agency to improve their public image as well as creating publicity for their new clothing line.
- Miranda: Sounds exciting. What exactly do you see me doing on this project?
- Janet: I would like you to do some research on Farmani. In my experience, the best way to do it is by setting up an appointment with him.
- Miranda: OK. I can do that. And then?
- Janet: Once you've done that, the next thing I want you to do is find out as much as you can about Holly's.
- Miranda: Got it. How do I go about that?
- Janet: You need to keep track of their social media. This is what we call monitoring coverage. We use it to get a better insight into the company's image.
- Miranda: Gotcha! I'm going to get started on this right away.

Let's Practice!

What has Janet done? Did she scan through* the memo?

*To "scan through" means to read something quickly.

Instructions: Complete the sentences below by choosing one of the options from the word bank.

Word Bank

Have / They've decided / haven't read it / a lot of experience / familiar with / Are / worked / read

1. I have _____ as PR consultant.
2. I _____ but I did scan through it.
3. I have _____ working with clients internationally.
4. _____ you _____ through the memo I sent?
5. _____ to hire a PR firm.
6. _____ you _____ this kind of approach.

Let's Practice!

Janet gives Miranda a lot of instructions* to follow.

*When giving "instructions", you use sequencing words like first, then, next.

Instructions: Match the sentences on column A with their corresponding missing parts on Column B.

COLUMN A

1. What do you see me doing
2. I would like to
3. And
4. How do I

COLUMN B

- a. give you a rundown on this major project.
- b. then?
- c. on this project?
- d. go about doing that?

Extension Activity

Let's talk about work experience.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Make a list of 5 jobs. Write each job down on a piece of paper.
- For each job, think of the kind of work experience that someone that has the job would have.
- Write 2 sentences related to work experience for each on a separate piece of paper.
- Place the papers upside down so you can't see the words or sentences.
- Turn one paper over to see the word or sentence.
- Turn another paper over. If they are a match, you take the pair. If they are not a match, you place them upside down again.
- Continue until all the papers are taken.

Giving and Understand Oral Instructions

Both in the workplace and in our everyday lives, it is important to ask for instructions as well as to give them.

The chart below summarizes the most important language you can use.

Asking For Instructions	Giving Instructions
• How do you (do this)? • How do I ... (verb) ? • What is the best way to ... (verb) ? • How do I go about it? • What do you suggest? • Is this about ... ? • What do you see me doing ... ? • And then?	• I would like you to ... (verb) • In my experience, the best way to do it is by ... • You need to ... (verb). This is what we call ... I would start by ... (ing)
Sequencing	Continuing
• First, (you) ... • Then, (you) ... • Next, (you) ... • Lastly, (you) ...	• Once you've done that, the next thing I want you to do is to ... • After that, ... • The next step is to ... • When you finish that, then ... • The last step is to ... • The last thing you do is ...

Examples:

- I would like you to find out more about that company.
- How do I go about doing it?
- In my experience, the best way to do it is by scheduling an appointment with them.
- And then?
- After that, I would like you to keep track of their media activity.

Learning Points

Talking about Work Experience

In the Business World, when you are in an interview for a job, it is important to talk about work experience and what you have and haven't done before.

Present Perfect Tense

We use the Present Perfect (have + past participle) to describe and talk about experience:

- She hasn't worked in marketing.
- She has worked in a few PR companies.
- Have you used this software before?

Have experience of / with

You can also talk about experience using the expression have experience of:

- I have a lot of experience working with customers.
- I have no experience with advertising.
- Do you have any experience of dealing with clients?

Be Familiar with

You can also use the expression be familiar with to describe something you know because you learned about it or experienced it before.

- Are you familiar with this particular software?
- She's familiar with the problems we're having.
